

to whom it may concern,I would like to let you know that I have been an XM radio user since its first release. I enjoy the commercial channels that include music, comedy, and news. It is a great service that gives me acces to channels I wouuld other wise not be able to listen to. the best part is that even on a 2000 mile trip you can still listen to the sme stations.

I would like to show support for XM radion in their quest to offer weather and traffic channels. sattelite radio can reach much further that traditional radio. This could give motorists information far before they reach a trouble some areas, allowing them to divert around the trouble area far before they would have been able using a traditional radio. furthermore it is XM's right to offer what ever type of channels they lwant to.
